Stolen Relics and Civic Identity: Venice and the Contested Memories of the Fourth Crusade

Based on his monograph, David Perry will discuss the shaping of memory in the aftermath of a terrible war and significant shift in the geopolitics of the medieval world. Thanks to medieval ideas of Providence, looting, rather than fighting, became the major point of contention.